Dear Investigator Adsit,

Thank you for your interest in the CVSA and the subsequent training. However, while the National Institute for Truth Verification, the hallmark in voice stress for law enforcement, is more than interested in having you join the ranks of our trained examiners, I need to resolve the following issue.

1. The article, "Rome police test voice-based lie detector", reported in the Observer/Dispatch clearly reveals the Canastota Police Department's intent to work with the Rome Lab.

The NITV is very concerned that the Canastota Police Department will participate in research by the ROME LAB. Therefore, the NITV must request a letter from the Chief of Police clearly stating the Canastota Police Department is purchasing the CVSA for their departmental investigative services; criminal and pre-employment. That the Canastota Police Department will not allow anyone outside of their trained examiners, and specifically the Rome Lab, to use or have access to the CVSA and all proprietary interest will be protected. Additionally, the Chief of Police and the City Attorney will have to sign our (EULA) end user license agreement before purchase or training can be considered.

If the above concerns can be satisfied, I can assure you of a prompt attention with reference to your purchase and training concerns.

Please be assured of my prompt attention in all matters of mutual interest

Capt. David A. Hughes (Ret.)
Executive Director, NITV
